In the interest of traffic safety, I recommend that "NO U-TURN" be posted for the left-hand turn lane on westbound McDowell at 79th St. I remember when a Dairy Queen was in that location, just east of the intersection. Customers making u-turns off McDowell made it unsafe for motorists turning east onto McDowell off of 79th St. There already are some close-calls from customers who want to double-back to Walgreen's or McDonald's from westbound McDowell. The very popular Taco Bell surely will increase the risk/frequency of collisions if u-turns are allowed. It might help to add signage along with the NO U-TURN that Taco Bell access is from 79th St., if that's part of the plan, using the new south driveway provided for Walgreen's/McDonald's access.
